Senator Hatch Receives ASCF “Eagle of Freedom” Award

Mr. Robert Johnson, Mr. Mark Renehan, General Frederick Kroesen (1st Vice President), Brig. Gen. Donald B. Smith (Chairman), Senator Orrin Hatch (R-UT) Dr. Henry A. Fischer (President & CEO), Hon. Bill McCollum, Mr. H. Daniels Corrigan and Mrs. Betsy Fischer

On March 10, 2011 Senator Orrin Hatch (R-UT) received the American Security Council Foundations “Eagle of Freedom Award” for his strong support of Americas Energy Independence.

In presenting the award, Brigadier General Donald Smith, who is chairman of the American Security Council Foundation’s Board of Directors, said, “In recognition for his leadership, courage and vision in revitalizing America’s Energy Independence from foreign sources of oil, Senator Hatch’s tremendous dedication and distinguished service has resulted in numerous strides to increase the energy resources needed for a strong America.

Dr. Henry Fischer, president of the Foundation, added, “We thank you, Senator Hatch, for your years of leadership and inspiration to our elected officials.

Gen. Smith applauded Senator Hatch’s outstanding voting record on matters of military and energy preparedness as one of the best in Congress.

The American Security Council Foundation also recognized Sens. Ben Nelson (D-NE), Jon Kyl (R-Ariz.), and Reps. Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R-Fla.) and Connie Mack (R-FL) with other 2011 Congressional Leadership Awards.

The American Security Council Foundation has been at the forefront of the defense and foreign policy debate for more than 50 years. President Reagan credited the organization for developing the doctrine of “Peace through Strength” that won the Cold War.

Originally known as the Institute for American Strategy, the foundation focuses on a wide range of educational programs which address critical challenges to U.S. foreign policy, national security and the global economy.
