Representative Ros-Lehtinen Receives ASCF “Eagle of Freedom” Award

Gen. Frederick Kroesen (1st Vice President), Mr. Robert Johnson, Mr. Mark Renehan, Cong. Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R-FL), Brig. Gen. Donald B. Smith, Hon. Bill McCollum, Mrs. Betsy Fischer, Dr. Henry A. Fischer (President & CEO)

On March 10, 2011 Congresswoman Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R-FL) received the American Security Council Foundation’s “Eagle of Freedom Award” for her dedication to foreign policy and support of America’s Military Readiness and Superiority.

In presenting the award, Brigadier General Donald Smith, who is chairman of the American Security Council Foundation’s Board of Directors, said, “In recognition for her leadership, courage and vision in revitalizing America’s foreign policy, defense capabilities and promoting a strong military, Congresswoman Ros-Lehtinen’s tremendous dedication and distinguished service has resulted in numerous strides to foreign policy that has resulted in the military effectiveness needed for a strong America.

Dr. Henry Fischer, president of the Foundation, added, “We thank you, Congresswoman Ros-Lehtinen, for your years of leadership and inspiration to our elected officials.

Gen. Smith applauded Congresswoman Ros-Lehtinen’s outstanding voting record on matters of military issues and foreign policy as one of the best in Congress.

The American Security Council Foundation also recognized Sens. Ben Nelson (D-NE), Orrin Hatch (R-UT.), Jon Kyl (R-AZ) and Connie Mack (R-FL) with other 2011 Congressional Leadership Awards.

The American Security Council Foundation has been at the forefront of the defense and foreign policy debate for more than 50 years. President Reagan credited the organization for developing the doctrine of “Peace through Strength” that won the Cold War.

Originally known as the Institute for American Strategy, the foundation focuses on a wide range of educational programs which address critical challenges to U.S. foreign policy, national security and the global economy.
